

Building Confidence One Strand at a Time

Stanley Before

Stanley Campbell, a Massachusetts landlord and married father of two, feels more confident and self assured at 46 than he did in his early 20's, thanks to his hair restoration surgeries at Leonard Hair Transplant Associates (LHTA).

At just 22, Stanley began to notice an unusual amount of hair in the shower drain. Like his father and brother, his hair was noticeably thinning. It wasn't so much the occasional cracks from friends over the years or his wife's teasing, but rather his own desire to have more hair and greater self esteem that led him to his first hair transplant surgery by another physician.

"I wasn't overly impressed," Stanley says, "so I figured I'd try someone else.-" Stanley's decision to follow up on a referral to LHTA was influenced, he says, by Dr. Leonard's credentials and his leadership role in the field as well as the friendliness of his staff. He was also pleased with the ease of the surgery and the lasting results. Dr. Leonard has since performed a second surgery on Stanley to give him an even fuller look over time.

"I've had toothaches that bothered me more," Stanley relates, acknowledging how surprised he was to be able to go back to work the same day. The positive comments he gets when he tells hairdressers, family, and friends he has had the surgery remind him regularly that he made the right decision. "People don't believe me when I tell them.

Stanley After

They say how great I look and that they would never have guessed I'd had anything done."

"I'd recommend Dr. Leonard and LHTA to anyone who's experiencing hair loss," Stanley concludes. "It's about personal self image. I still feel better inside."
